Introduction

Life is a mixture of favorable and unfavorable turn of events, which generate sorrow or happiness. Nobody is perfect and the birth chart shows us the ways and means of continuing to strive towards perfection. Life itself is a maze of the unknown, but there is always a bright ray, which navigates during the rough times. Some charts lean more towards elucidating how painful was the experience while another group finds wisdom and a learning experience in the struggle. These characteristics are very apparent in a chart and this report will primarily show you the various functions that the primary and the secondary rays signified by Sun and Moon in your life and what these two planets could mean for you. They are the luminaries that show the path. You may have many answers to frustrating questions, about failures and sorrows and inabilities that you find very hard to combat. On the positive side many possibilities of future achievements will also be clear to you.

Your Ascendant.

The Ascendent or Lagna is the rising sign. Lagna means attached to the earth's horizon line. This is for the time and location of a specific chart. This signature is very important and is almost a miniature biography of the person under analysis. It gives a very vital overall outline of the qualities of the chart being interpreted.

Your Ascendant is Scorpion, the sign number 8. Scorpion is the negative sign of Mars. It is a fixed sign and represents the Water element in the personality, a very profound and mysterious sign. They see life as a battle between light and darkness with which they may become obsessed. They are often fascinated with techniques or technologies for directing energy, either outwardly or inwardly. The ruler of Scorpion is Mars, which is the astrological signifier of Energy. Application and manifestation of energy, power as well as land, property and real estate becomes the key focus in life for Scorpions. It is one of the strongest signs in the Zodiac where the strength lies in subtlety and not in pomp and show. They are intense and intuitive but never aggressive in the usual sense of the term. They fight their opposition in much more lethal way than most. While other strong signs will forget to consider all the angles, they will find the most vulnerable spot easily and attack. They are passionate and possessive in love and cannot accept denials with grace. It is very difficult for them to walk away from emotional attachments. They talk in a mysterious manner that either infuriates or intrigues the members of the opposite sex. They are normally practical and have a strong sense of right and wrong, barring love and profession. They are magnetic personalities and enjoy tremendous clout with the members of the opposite sex. But on the negative side they can also bask in the glory of infinite relaxation till someone shakes them. They also enjoy being indulgent in their affection which ultimately becomes a very expensive proposition.

Your Sun sign

This is the sign where your Sun is located. This prediction denotes the basic instincts or inclination that you may have all through your life. The predictions given in this area will depend on the strength of your Sun, other astrological factors like house location, aspect, cohabitation with other planets etc will give a more detailed and accurate picture.

Your Sun is located in Sagittarius Your Sun sign is Sagittarius

Order and method are the basis of your nature. Disorder and confusion distress you. You like to make step by step progress in everything and your thinking is based on truth and reason. While you are confident and self-dependent, you are quick to locate weaknesses of others. You are not afraid to speak the truth and always stand up for it. This sometimes hurts others (even though your intention is not to hurt) and people tend to misunderstand you and become your enemy. You have a natural inclination towards science and philosophy. You often desire to unravel the finer and inner truth of things. Since you abhor disorder in the practical world, you would like to find order and method amongst confusion.

Your Sun is located in II house in Sagittarius

Your beliefs would be positive and would be highly concerned for impartiality and fairness. Philosophy would attract you and would be devoted to high ideals and causes. You would seek freedom and be of a friendly and fun-loving nature. Sincerity, honesty etc. would be your benchmarks. You may excel as a counselor, consultant, judge, minister etc. But you would also get frustrated and would modify your job and residence often. Over optimism would be your way of life and would say what comes to mind without thinking. Debts would come up easily and you would not be open to any review. Ailments of the leg, liver, nerves, lungs, hip may strike you.

You may experience some difficulties in the area of finance, education and family happiness. Sun being a natural malefic may cause harsh speech and arrogant diction. There may be trouble in the field of education as well. However all this is actually dependent to a large extent on the other aspects in regard to other benefic or malefic planets of the chart. Any benefic aspect can reverse the negative qualities while afflictions can strengthen the negative impact. The prediction is not applicable if Sun is your 2nd house lord.

The element at your Sun Sign : Fire signs bring our planetary energies into the realm of our soul and its manifestation. It is a strong and dominant factor that governs our ambition, determination and the will to achieve. The domination extends to those in the surrounding as well. Hence fire sign persons are strong, independent and generous. On the higher level, fire signs are great achievers and have an expansive nature. On the lower level it can make a tyrannical, rash and aggressive nature, where the proverbial 'I ` goes beyond all values. Fire signs can easily burn up their potential when imbalanced where the logic of cause and effect becomes redundant.
